Pianist Made Acting Head By Simmons

Young Virginian Assumes Baton Held by Smith For 25 Years

John Crowder, professor of music since 1929, yesterday became acting dean of the School of Music, taking up the baton of the late Dean DeLoss Smith, who founded the school 25 years ago.

President George Finlay Simmons' announcement of the appointment came on the eve of the two-day celebration of the silver anniversary of the school.

During the years that Crowder has been head of the piano department and music professor "he has done much to raise the level of instruction and appreciation at the university," the president said.

Took Degree at Richmond
The new dean earned his degree in music at the University of Richmond, Virginia, where he took special work under John Powell, who was chosen by Walter Damrosch as the most representative of the best American musicians to tour Europe in 1921 with the New York Philharmonic orchestra.

After graduation, Crowder studied three years under Frau Malwine Bree, one-time assistant to Leschetizky, the musician whose teaching molded Paderewski. He also studied under Dr. Hans Weiss, now head of the piano department of the David Mannes School of Music in New York.

During 1928-29 the talented young Virginian taught as head of the piano and theory departments at Manch college, after which he came to Montana.

Organized Piano Ensemble
The first eight-piano, 16-pianist ensemble which appeared here several years ago under the auspices of the Community Concert association was organized by the new professor of music.

For three years Butte audiences acclaimed the well-balanced group. Many flocked to see the soft-voiced musician's recitals throughout the state and at the university in later years.

Last September Crowder returned after a year's leave of absence, during which he earned his master's degree at the Eastman School of Music and appeared as guest soloist with the Rochester Symphony orchestra over the NBC red network.

Hundred Registrants Enrolled Last Night; 900 More Expected

Massed Group Programs Will Begin Saturday Night With Broadcast from Dornblaser Field; Dance Concludes Conference

Western Montana's first Musical festival officially opened this morning with the presentation of several numbers at convocation. An even hundred registered for the meet last night in the Bitter Root room, and 900 more are still expected.

Military Men Will Present Fourth Dance

Identity of Co-ed Colonel To Be Revealed Tomorrow

Fourth annual Military ball in the Gold room tomorrow night will feature the presentation of the new co-ed colonel. Robert Robinson, cadet colonel of the Grizzly regiment, and the honored woman will lead the grand march following the presentation.

The ceremony will take place shortly after 9 o'clock tomorrow night. Five junior women were voted on by ROTC officers. Sally Hopkins, Sarajane Murphy, Margaret Love, Patricia Hutchinson and Catherine Berg are the candidates for the colonelship.

Scabbard and Blade members and their dates will dine at the Happy Bungalow before the dance.

MAVERICKS TO MEET

Maverick club will meet Monday at 7:30 o'clock in the Bitter Root room.

Registration will continue through today and tomorrow. Cards, programs, room assignments and instructions for contestants will be issued at the registration desk.

Saturday at 12:30 o'clock the massed band will march from Missoula County high school to the Northern Pacific depot. The Missoula high school band will lead the parade and the university band will bring up the rear.

Massed Programs Begin

According to Stanley M. Teel, director of the festival, the program of massed groups will start at 7:15 o'clock Saturday night instead of 8 o'clock as printed on the program. "It will be necessary for everybody to be on Dornblaser field at 7:15 o'clock because the massed program will be broadcast," Teel stated.

Saturday night all contestants of the festival will be guests of the university at a dance in the men's gymnasium. Entrants must show their registration or Konah cards before they will be allowed in the dance.

Students in Charge

University music majors in charge of the program are Muriel Nelson, piano solos, Main hall auditorium, 2 o'clock Friday; Sam Smith, small ensembles, Student Union auditorium, 2 o'clock Friday; Marjorie Long, solos, Silver room, 2 o'clock Friday; Sam Smith, choruses, Main hall auditorium, 2 o'clock Saturday; Virginia Lee Starr and Audrey Darrow, bands, 4 o'clock Saturday; Mary LeClaire, band programs, 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

Clarence W. Bell, director of the university band, will direct the massed high school and university bands; A. H. Weisberg, director of the university orchestra, will direct the massed high school and university orchestras, and Fritz Krueger, instructor of music, will lead the massed choruses.

Convocation this morning was in charge of John Crowder, professor of music. Fritz Krueger, professor of voice, was featured vocalist, accompanied by Crowder.

Lewistown girls presented a two-piano number. Soloists from Billings and Winnett sang, while two girls from Fort Benton gave a demonstration of baton twirling. Big Timber featured a cornet ensemble.

Welcome, Festival Participants; The Campus Is Yours

Montana State university extends its welcome to the high school musicians and instructors who registered last night for the Western Montana Music festival.

Many of the activities of your festival will take place on the university campus, at which time you will be able to inspect and appraise the facilities for the continuance of your education. The campus is yours for the duration of the festival.

Feel free to ask any questions about buildings, courses or whatever interests you. You will find university students and instructors friendly and cooperative.

Life of Russian Musician Reveals Novel Adventures

A life packed with adventure and musical wealth has been the lot of Ariel Rubstein, Russian pianist, who will be presented at the Student Union theater Wednesday by the Outside Entertainment committee.

Rubstein, director of the Ellison-White Conservatory of Music at Portland, began his career at the age of 12 in Kiev and the Ukraine. At this young age he was grooming prospective students in preparation for advanced conservatory studies.

Accompanied Chaliapin

As a conservatory student at 14, he went on an extensive tour throughout Russia as the accompanist of Feodor Chaliapin, singer. Today, a caricature of the two, depicting Chaliapin as a giant of a man in evening clothes and Rubstein as a tiny boy in gold-buttoned uniform, hangs in an artists' club in Kiev.

The next two years were occupied in concertizing and accompanying artists throughout Russia. At 16 years he was assistant director and coach of the Imperial Opera house in Kiev.

Tells of Revolution

"At the time of the trouble in Russia, a famous Bulgarian tenor, Raicheff, wished to leave too. The government was in such turmoil that sometimes the most fantastic tales could be gotten away with, especially by a foreigner. So Raicheff one day announced that he was the Bulgarian ambassador to Ukraine, and that I was his secretary, all a complete fabrication.

"Immediately, and very conveniently, the newly declared ambassador decided that it was necessary to return to his country and, as secretary of the ambassador, there was no danger of my being left behind. The most ludicrous part of the departure was the fine entertainment we received on the way out as foreign notables," said Rubstein.

Went to Istanbul

Rubstein went directly to Istanbul, where he organized a grand opera company of refugee Russian singers. Under his direction the company presented the first opera ever heard in Istanbul, then Constantinople. At this time he composed a Turkish military march for President Mustapha Kemal.

Six Writers Enter Work

"Ten stories by six writers have been turned in for the Annie Lewis Joyce Memorial contest," Dr. H. G. Merriam said yesterday. This year the prize will be awarded for the best short story written by an undergraduate, with winning stories considered for publication in Frontier and Midland.

Judges for the contest are Professor W. F. G. Thatcher, instructor in the short story at the University of Oregon journalism school; Robert Todd Struckman, Great Falls high school instructor, university graduate and short story writer, and Professor H. J. Bolles, instructor in creative writing and composition at Montana State college and writer of poetry for Frontier and Midland.

JANESTORMS

An artistic spell has stricken the SAE's. Not only are they spending colossal sums for landscaping but they've also taken to calcimining their own rooms. Clarence Hirling has one blotched up so badly from locker to woodwork that all four occupants are threatening to move out.

Sort of a whited sepulcher, so to speak.

Jim McDonough is feeling somewhat subdued. It seems he sauntered up to a co-ed the other day and began a nice sticky conversation. "You live in Helena, don't you?" he asked eventually. "Look, I'm going to work over there this summer. How about my looking you up?"

"Oh, sure, come over any time," she answered sweetly, "Mother'd be glad to see you."

People are beginning to think that crack of Peggy Carrigan's about sending application pictures to all the fraternity houses wasn't said in jest. The house where Wild Bill Kreuger lives, for instance, reports receipt of one. It isn't a fraternity house, though, and the fellows are yelling "Favoritism" and "Anti-Social" and stuff.

According to Jack DeMers, Alpha Chi Omega's seven weddings this year puts them two rushing jumps ahead of the other houses. It never rains but it showers.

"I wish we'd get a few shipwrecked sailors washed ashore," mused the cannibal chief. "What I need is a good dose of Salts."

Burly Miller must feel that the WPA influence has affected his yard workers. Yesterday he tore around the corner of his house carrying a pick and caustically remarked, "Here, lean on this one for a while."

Yours truly,
JOHN DOLAN,
Aber Day Manager.

We are working hard to make this year's Aber day a real success and sincerely hope you are out to enjoy the fun with us.

We feel that your presence will create a better understanding and feeling between students and faculty. As in past years, all faculty members except those working on special projects, will rake the lawn between Main hall and the Forestry building. This work will begin at 9 o'clock. We sincerely hope that upon completion of this work you will mingle with the students for the remainder of the day's activities.

We wish to take this opportunity of inviting each member of the faculty and his family to join with the students in the Aber day celebration. In past years few members of the faculty have joined with us in the fun on the traditional holiday.

All-Star Nine To Challenge Store Team

Interfraternity Leaguers Will Engage Veterans On Aber Holiday

An All-star Interfraternity baseball nine chosen by Lubick, Forte and Greene, Interfraternity league umpires, will play the Student Store team at 2:30 o'clock on Aber day at the South Higgins ball park.

Abe Thompson, Phi Sig manager, will manage the All-Star team. Pitchers for the game will be Campbell, PDT; Ghirardo, PSK; Poe, ATO, and Marcus, SN. Tomorrow, ATO, and Newton, PSK, will catch.

First basemen are Schaertl, Maverick, and McCauley, ATO, with Wysel, SPE, and Dean Galles, PDT, at second and Dale Galles, PDT, and Dolan, SX, on third base. Chouinard, ATO, and Gustafson, SX, at shortstop, will complete the infield.

The outfield will consist of Rooley, ATO, and Nugent, PDT, in left field; Lundberg, SN, and McCulloch, TX, in center field, and Herbert, Mavericks, and Kretzer, SN, in right field.

Papworth Speaks To Hamilton P-TA On View of Japan

Mrs. Bernice Papworth, professor of home economics, leads the crowded life of the popular speaker.

Monday night she told the Hamilton Parent-Teacher association about "Japan As I See It." Mrs. Papworth spent four years in Japan before returning here last year to join the home economics staff.

She will speak Friday to the Orchard Homes Women's club, May 9 to a literary group and May 31 to a council of county agents. The Bozeman PEO invited her to come and talk May 8, but got their invitation in too late.

Mrs. Papworth has addressed several groups during the year including Dillon Rotarians, to whom she spoke at Christmas.

Whadja Say, John?

By JOHN CAMPBELL

THE TRAINER TALKS . . .

Two-score Grizzly gridders take the practice sod and toil vigorously through a hot scrimmage session. The sideliners put heads together and praise the work of the ambitious and talented youths and they also laud the sage coaching shown by the entire staff. With such a hard-working gang of toughies led by a competent group of leaders, the Joe Fans don't see how the outfit can miss. Fessenden knows the answers, they say to one another, Dahlberg is ever alert, Johnny Dolan and Monk Gedgoud are valuable coaching assets with their experience. But do they talk about the guy who runs the whole show, the unsung hero who makes those football players tick? No, there aren't any consideration or plaudits handed out to the most valuable man in the business. The one who is responsible for the good showing of the players is the faithful trainer. It's about time somebody was realizing just what an important fellow Naseby Rhinehart is.

Nase Rhinehart

"Nase" has the job of keeping spring football players in battle trim, together with the no small task of seeing that the Grizzly track squad is ready, willing and able. Each afternoon you can saunter over to the training room and watch the busiest man on the campus tape, bandage, rub down, patch up and prime the warriors for their strenuous activities. Yes, sir, Trainer Nase deserves the orchids for the splendid showing after a week's practice.

The spring football season hasn't been too kind to Doug Fessenden so far this year and Rhinehart has quite a hospital list. The trainer's bulletin reads: "Sam Roberts, sprained ankle; Coley Vaughn, chipped bone in ankle; Eso Naranche, wrenched knee; Roy Gustafson, compound dislocation of little finger; Frank Nelson, cracked femur." Aside from this group, Nase says the Grizzly squad is in fine fettle, having toughened up with contact work.

In 1934 Nase Rhinehart finished three seasons of football, basketball and track and since then the nine-letterman has been Grizzly trainer, or, more accurately, saviour of Grizzly athletes. He has kept injured football players on their feet, provided the stamina for tired hoopers and has given new life to runners' legs. His most important work is during football season, and the man who has been around more "joints" than most, says the knee injury is the one to fear.

"In the time I've been here, the sprained ankle has been the most frequent injury to football players, but the bad knee is the one to look out for. Any trainer will tell you," asserts the Grizzly rubadubber, "that the knee injury, whether it be a bruise to that big patella bone or just a plain twist to the ligaments, is the most uncertain one and hardest to diagnose."

This might be a hint for the Golden Grizzlies. Incidentally, Rhinehart is destined to be quite busy May 12th, doctoring up both teams, and in the meantime trying to sneak in for a couple plays himself.

With the Golden Grizzlies in action again next month, it's too bad "Fessy" isn't around to watch his buddies play. Little Fes, probably a forest lord somewhere now, hasn't been forgotten by the school. If anybody hasn't got a job lined up for the summer, he can be doing something to venture out to scare up another mascot.

Mascots play a big part with football teams throughout the country today, lending color and interest to the game itself. So if there is a bear around here next fall, someone will be doing a big favor to Montana. Why, even Montana State has a scraggly bobcat!

Interfraternity footballers are faced with a problem, one that should be taken up now to avoid trouble when the season rolls around. In an effort to keep cars from crossing the playing field, big stakes have been placed at each end of the greensward; although they keep cars off, they're in the way. The field is only 80 yards from goal post to goal post but the stakes are located in touchdown land behind the posts. Somebody is likely to get hurt.

ROTC MEN TO MEET

All advanced course ROTC men are to meet in the Gold room tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock with sabers to practice the presentation ceremony for Military ball.

Sig Alphas Get Three Hits Off Abe Thompson, Winning Hurler

Today, 4 o'clock, PDT vs. Mavericks. Saturday, 10 o'clock, TX vs. SPE; 1 o'clock, SX vs. SN; 3 o'clock, ATO vs. PSK. Sunday, 9 o'clock, SAE vs. TX; 11 o'clock, ATO vs. Mavericks.

Phi Sigma Kappa allowed three hits and connected for seven to take Sigma Alpha Epsilon into camp, 12 to 3, in yesterday's Interfraternity baseball league game.

Scoring began in the first as Furlong and Newton crossed the plate for Phi Sig runs on errors by Fairbanks, SAE catcher, and Manley, right fielder. SAE made it 2-1 in the third with Schulte coming in on the second baseman's error.

In the last of the third, Phi Sig made three more runs with Simpson coming in on Anderson's single, Thompson's double bringing in Anderson and Thompson coming in on a fielding error.

Five hits and three walks in the fourth inning scored seven runs for the Phi Sigs, with Mikota, Ames, Anderson, Thompson, Furlong, Newton and Salansky crossing the plate. Tonrey scored on a catcher's error and Peek's sacrifice hit brought in Bradley in the fifth for SAE.

Batteries: PSK, Thompson and Newton; SAE, Schulte, Peek, Roberts and Fairbanks. Umpire: Robinson.

Merriam Says Linderman Issue Is Selling Fast

"The Linderman number of Frontier and Midland is practically exhausted," Dr. H. G. Merriam announced recently, "and we will probably have to raise the price soon." Merriam stated he is willing to pay a good price for back issues of the magazine, as he has orders for them which have not been filled.

"The summer issue of Frontier and Midland, now in press, is devoted entirely to Northwest writers," he added. This number will come out about June 15.

Paper Issued By Mavericks

Roundup Editor Dorothy Bangs distributed the latest issue of the Maverick paper yesterday. A cover by Maverick Artist Kinny Kinnear, Butte, and articles by independent writers are features of the edition.

Editorials on cancer control and elections are included. An article on Maverick activities shows the value of the Maverick program to independent students. Intramural debate and Maverick sports are topics of other stories.

Nash to Send Letters Today For Writings

Preliminary work on the special Interscholastic edition of Sluice Box gets under way today with the sending of letters to 210 Montana high school English teachers asking for their best student writing. Bill Nash, editor, said yesterday.

The special edition, inaugurated last year, is a two-in-one issue, he described, which combines as many pages of the best high school writing as it does university literary work.

Poetry, stories and sketches contributed by 12 high schools were selected for publication in the 1938 Track Meet edition from the material sent in by the English classes of 20 state schools.

"This year's edition will undoubtedly be improved. The list of contributing high schools should be larger and the material harder to choose from than last year," he predicted enthusiastically.

Staff members should turn in the money they took in on sales of the April issue to the Student Union office today, Nash said.

Aber Day Rule Says No Cars

Only official cars and trucks will be allowed on the campus Aber day, according to John Dolan, Aber day manager. Rules for the day will be enforced by members of M club, assisted by Spurs and Bear Paws.

Men and women living in dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses must be up by 7:30 o'clock, said Dolan, or they will be helped out of bed and brought to work as they are dressed when found. Band members will accompany the "wake up" crew to provide music.

Those students who do not appear for work as scheduled will be brought before high court on the oval at 1:30 o'clock. High court will be conducted by law school seniors under Chairman Meredith Watts.

Home Ec Seniors Will Go to Dixon With Miss Brady

Members of the senior methods class in home economics will accompany Miss Agnes Brady, supervisor of practice teaching, to Dixon today, where they will make suggestions for equipment to be installed in the new department of the high school there.

The plan to aid high schools in equipping their home-making centers was inaugurated several weeks ago in co-operation with Miss Lella Massey, state supervisor of home economics. At present two schools, including Dixon, have asked for assistance. Equipment sheets listing the minimum, average and desirable large and small equipment, with an estimated price on each group, has been mailed to the two schools, Miss Brady said.

The seniors making the trip are Helen Brumwell, Catherine Cope, Marie Hedges, Marjorie Hawke and Mary Strom.
